Subject: Formal Warning Regarding Management Conduct

Dear Mr. Gaurav Agarwal,

This letter serves as a formal warning regarding concerns that have been raised about your conduct and management approach as Sales Manager.

Several concerns have been reported regarding criticism of employees during meetings, perceived favoritism toward a small group of employees, excessive micromanagement, and the use of threatening or intimidating behaviour when sales targets are not achieved. Concerns have also been raised regarding taking credit for contributions made by members of your team.

These behaviours can negatively affect employee morale, teamwork, productivity, and the overall workplace environment. Several employees have expressed that they feel stressed, undervalued, and uncomfortable sharing their ideas.

You are expected to maintain a professional, respectful, and supportive approach toward all employees. Going forward, you must ensure that feedback is provided constructively, employees are treated fairly, and individual contributions are appropriately acknowledged.

You are advised to take this warning seriously and demonstrate immediate improvement in your management conduct.

Sincerely,
HR Manager
FinEdge Financial Services

Subject: Second Warning – Continued Concerns Regarding Managerial Conduct

Dear Mr. Gaurav Agarwal,

This letter constitutes a second formal warning concerning continued concerns regarding your conduct and management of the Sales Department.

Despite previous feedback, concerns continue to be reported regarding criticism of employees in meetings, preferential treatment toward certain employees, excessive monitoring and micromanagement, and intimidating or threatening behaviour when targets are not achieved. There are also concerns that contributions made by team members are not being appropriately recognized.

Such conduct has contributed to an environment in which employees have reported feeling stressed, undervalued, and hesitant to communicate ideas or concerns openly. This is inconsistent with the professional standards expected of managers at FinEdge Financial Services.

You are required to make immediate and sustained improvements in your leadership approach. You must communicate respectfully, apply standards consistently, provide constructive feedback, delegate responsibilities appropriately, and recognize employees' contributions fairly.

Your conduct and progress will be monitored by management. Failure to demonstrate satisfactory improvement may result in further disciplinary action.

Sincerely,
HR Manager

PERFORMANCE IMPROVEMENT PLAN (PIP)

Company: FinEdge Financial Services
Employee: Gaurav Agarwal
Designation: Sales Manager
Department: Sales
Plan Duration: 90 Days
Date of Issue: 15 February 2026

1. Purpose of the PIP

This Performance Improvement Plan has been issued to address concerns regarding managerial conduct, employee relations, leadership style, and team management.

The objective is to help Gaurav Agarwal develop a more professional, fair, supportive, and effective leadership approach while maintaining the required sales performance of the department.

2. Areas Requiring Improvement

Area of Concern| Expected Improvement| Measurement
Criticism during meetings| Provide feedback privately and constructively rather than publicly criticizing employees.| No substantiated complaints regarding humiliating or disrespectful criticism.
Favoritism| Treat all team members fairly and provide equal access to opportunities, responsibilities, and recognition.| HR review of team feedback and allocation of opportunities.
Micromanagement| Delegate responsibilities and allow employees reasonable independence in completing their work.| Monthly team feedback and review of delegation practices.
Threatening behaviour| Use professional and respectful communication when discussing missed targets or poor performance.| Zero substantiated incidents of threats or intimidation.
Recognition of contributions| Properly acknowledge employees for their ideas, achievements, and work.| Team feedback and documented recognition of individual contributions.
Employee communication| Create an environment where employees feel comfortable sharing ideas and concerns.| Improvement in anonymous employee-feedback scores.
Leadership skills| Demonstrate supportive, accountable, and professional leadership.| Regular reviews with HR and senior management.

3. Required Actions

During the 90-day period, Gaurav is required to:

1. Attend leadership and people-management training.
2. Attend training on workplace communication and conflict management.
3. Conduct team meetings in a respectful and professional manner.
4. Provide performance feedback privately and constructively where appropriate.
5. Establish clear performance expectations rather than using threats or intimidation.
6. Delegate tasks appropriately and avoid unnecessary interference in routine work.
7. Maintain equal treatment of all team members.
8. Recognize employees' contributions during team meetings and performance reviews.
9. Conduct regular one-to-one meetings with team members to understand concerns and provide support.
10. Maintain a professional record of performance discussions and agreed action points.

4. 30–60–90 Day Review

Days 1–30: Awareness & Immediate Correction

- Complete assigned management and communication training.
- Stop inappropriate criticism, threats, and intimidating communication immediately.
- Begin using constructive feedback methods.
- HR conducts an initial confidential employee-feedback survey.

Days 31–60: Behaviour & Leadership Development

- Demonstrate consistent respectful communication.
- Show measurable improvement in delegation and employee involvement.
- Ensure fair distribution of responsibilities and opportunities.
- Conduct regular one-to-one meetings with team members.
- HR conducts a mid-point review.

Days 61–90: Sustained Improvement

- Maintain professional behaviour consistently.
- Demonstrate improved employee engagement and trust.
- Maintain appropriate delegation and recognition practices.
- Achieve agreed sales targets without compromising professional conduct.
- Complete final employee-feedback assessment and management review.

5. Success Criteria

The PIP will be considered successfully completed when:

- There are no substantiated incidents of threatening or intimidating behaviour.
- Employee complaints regarding disrespectful treatment show significant improvement.
- Team members report greater comfort in sharing ideas and concerns.
- Employees are treated fairly and consistently.
- Employee contributions are appropriately recognized.
- The manager demonstrates effective delegation instead of excessive micromanagement.
- Required leadership and communication training is successfully completed.
- Sales targets are pursued while maintaining professional workplace conduct.

6. Monitoring and Support

The employee will receive reasonable support from HR and senior management throughout the PIP. Progress will be reviewed at 30, 60, and 90 days.

Feedback from employees may be collected confidentially to assess improvement in the manager's leadership behaviour.

7. Consequences of Failure to Improve

Failure to demonstrate satisfactory and sustained improvement during the PIP may result in further disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment, in accordance with company policy and applicable requirements.

Subject: Final Warning – Managerial Conduct and Workplace Behaviour

Dear Mr. Gaurav Agarwal,

This letter serves as a final formal warning regarding serious concerns about your managerial conduct and behaviour toward members of the Sales Department.

Management has received multiple concerns regarding public criticism of employees during meetings, favoritism toward a small group of employees, excessive micromanagement, threatening or intimidating behaviour when sales targets are not met, and failure to appropriately acknowledge employees' contributions.

These concerns are particularly serious because employees have reported feeling stressed, undervalued, and uncomfortable expressing their ideas and opinions. Such an environment can adversely affect employee well-being, teamwork, productivity, and the effectiveness of the department.

As a Sales Manager, you are expected to demonstrate professionalism, fairness, accountability, and respectful leadership. You are required to immediately discontinue any threatening, intimidating, or discriminatory management practices and ensure that all employees are treated fairly and their contributions are properly recognized.

Your conduct will be closely reviewed following this warning. Any further substantiated incidents or failure to demonstrate significant and sustained improvement may result in further disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment, in accordance with company policy and applicable requirements.

You are expected to treat this matter with the utmost seriousness and take immediate corrective action.

Sincerely,
HR Manager
